
The United States is a place where great things happen. Where innovation and creativity are born. Where people come together to try new things. And where, more often than not, those efforts are rewarded with success. We've built a country with an economy that's the envy of the world—from agriculture to high tech, from Hollywood to Silicon Valley. But as the president said in his State of the Union address this year, "We can do better. If we work together, if we choose hope over fear...then America's best days are still ahead of us."
